Bell tolls for street's 'appalling family'

GREENWICH Police and Greenwich Council have obtained their first premises closure order on a house in Greenwich after the family that lived there blighted the lives of their neighbours.

The occupants in Bell Street were removed under the Premises Closure Order, which forms part of the Anti-social Behaviour Legislation Act 2003. The family will not be able to return to the premises for three months.

Police, in consultation with Greenwich Council and Hyde Housing, removed them after prolonged and relentless anti-social behaviour inflicted not only by the family but also by those who regularly visited them.

The four-bedroom council house will be closed for three months to provide respite for the other residents.

Police received calls related to the family relating to noise, criminal damage, vandalism, fights and verbal abuse against other residents.

PC Matt Brown, from the Greenwich anti-social behaviour team, told GT: "We gave the family sufficient warnings and provided them with plenty of opportunities to improve their behaviour.

"They have continually failed to engage with police and other

In my opinionWhy doesn't football
fancy it?

THERE was an interesting little spat during the excellent Sky coverage of the Twenty20 cricket final at the Rose Bowl ground the other weekend. One commentator - possibly the arguably tetchy Paul Allott - wondered out loud why they did it, why cricket fans turned up to big matches in fancy dress. The ever affable David "Bumble" Lloyd responded: "They're enjoying themselves!" Still the other pundit persisted: "But why?! You don't see it at Manchester United or Chelsea." Good question - but not in the way the miffed man at the mic meant it. Why do cricket fans and not football fans don fancy dress at big games, including Test Match Saturdays? Well, it's obvious, isn't it? The former don't take themselves that seriously while the latter can't take themselves seriously enough. One approach is self-deprecating and fun - the other tribal. Both are reflected in Sky's coverage. Football is hyped to the hills - if Garry Birtles mentions "desire" one more time! - while cricket has Bumble, Botham and Bob "Dylan" Willis ready to ruminate rather than rile. You could argue that football means more to people than cricket does, that people develop lifelong attachments to their local team, whereas the link to, say, "Super Kent" is spurious to say the least. Okay, but why does it always have to border on the moronic? Why do obscene chants still filter through to our living rooms at virtually every televised game? I'm told that the likes of Sam Bartram and Stanley Mathews used to be admired as much by opposing fans as home fans, the same as a Ricky Ponting century is applauded by everyone at The Oval or Lord's. Even the urbane Arsene Wenger throws the ball back to his own player for a throw-in but bounces it to an opponent. Mustn't be seen to fraternise with the enemy! What do you think? Must it always be "I'm Walsall till I die", as some kind of substitute for war? Or is there some way, some Jimmy Bullardish example to be followed by the less than beautiful game?

The learning way back to work

THOUSANDS of adult students are getting ready for a new term's courses at venues across the borough with the emphasis very much on helping people back into work. Greenwich Council and Greenwich Community College are working with voluntary groups to promote a wide-ranging programme of courses that aim to encourage post-school learners of all ages. As well as courses leading to formal qualifications in GCSEs and A-levels, business and trades, there is also a vast choice of leisure interests from arts and crafts, digital photography and performing arts. Cllr Denise Hyland, the council's cabinet member for regeneration, enterprise and skills, said: "Adult learning courses can provide you with the opportunities to gain new skills, experience and qualifications which in these difficult times could make all the difference to your quality of life and your employment prospects." Going to the college website at www.gcc.ac.uk is the easy way to enroll for all Greenwich Community College courses and avoid queues. To find out more call 020-8488 4896.

Billy, 16, wins trip to World Youth Olympics

by Peter Cordwell

IF you're going to impress anybody with your photography, it might as well be the International Olympic Committee (IOC) - and it's a good idea if there's a once-in-a-lifetime prize attached to it as well.

That's what Thomas Tallis schoolboy Billy Rowlinson's done, and he flew out at the weekend to Singapore as an official IOC photographer at the World Youth Olympics.

Billy's picture, right, won the IOC's competition that's been running on Flickr since the beginning of May.

Sixteen-year-old Billy, who lives in Eltham, told GT: "I submitted a few pictures and forgot all about it. Then I found out last week that I'd won. I was really excited but I wondered if it was legit because you hear about these sorts of things."

"But it all got confirmed and I had to fill in all the paperwork for the trip, terms and conditions and that sort of thing, so I knew it was real."

Then came the airline tickets for Billy and a bonus for his mum, Sue, who will travel with him because he's under 18. "She's really excited too," said Billy, "and still asking lots of questions!"

He's been taking pictures for about three years after getting his first SLR digital camera. He said: "A lot of my friends at school do art, painting and drawing, so I've made photography my art."

"I also like running and cycling and I'm hoping to enter a duathlon, where you run, cycle then run again. Then maybe, in a few years' time, I could try the Iron Man competition."

Top local sprinter David Bolarinwa, who's also 16, will be competing in Singapore and has a great chance of

Store on the blocks for 2012 hopefuls

by Peter Cordwell

THERE'S a lot more in store for Greenwich's Olympic hopefuls thanks to a fund-raising initiative by Marks and Spencer in Woolwich.

The long-established store in Powis Street is making Greenwich Starting Blocks its annual 100-day charity challenge for 2010.

"Every Marks and Spencer store picked a local charity to support," said general merchandise manager Jackie Haddock, who came up with the Starting Blocks idea. "Last year we raised money for Demelza and this year we decided to go for Greenwich Starting Blocks as we're now only two years away from the Olympics coming to London and to Greenwich."

"I got on to Steve Sutherland, who is one of the Starting Blocks trustees, and it went on from there. We had a meeting last week and now it's all up and running.

"It's a good thing because it gets all the staff involved. I've been here 12 years and it's a brilliant firm to work for. People get a paid day off to get involved in fund-raising."

Staff are paying £1.50 to wear sports and leisure wear to work on Saturdays. There's also a lady who does Indian head massage and the money from that is going to Starting Blocks.

"We'll have bucket-shaking days and we're also looking at doing a quiz night," said Jackie, who lives in Charlton. "We're all coming up with different ideas to make it a success. One of the girls is baking cakes and selling them amongst ourselves in the staff canteen for the charity."

"There are 52 members of staff here, we're not a big store, but it's something that everyone is interested in. I've heard that one of the first gold medals will be won in Woolwich, at the shooting, I think, so we've all got to be involved."

"It's exciting and hopefully it bring more business into Woolwich as well."

Five athletes went to the store last week to show their appreciation for M&S - weightlifter Zoe Smith, shot putter Curtis Griffiths-Parker, judo's Gemma Gibbons, athlete Lorraine Ugen and sitting volleyball player Robert Barratt.

Steve Sutherland was there as well with fellow trustees Peter Bunday, Jim Martin and Steve Nelson. Steve Sutherland told GT: "This is a wonderful gesture by Marks and Spencer. One of the joys of the Olympics coming to Greenwich is that it has a local as well as a global appeal. That's epitomised by Greenwich Starting Blocks and I hope M&S's staff and customers have a great time raising funds for the charity."

Those who bring misery to their community will be removed from their accommodation if they don't change their behaviour." Rachel Marsh, Hyde Housing's neighbourhood manager, said: "Hyde is pleased to have worked in close partnership with Greenwich Council and the police to secure this closure order. We are committed to working in partnership with other organisations to ensure we maintain an effective and proactive role in local anti-social behaviour strategies."

Problem is not on the buses

I READ with interest your article on the reduction of crime on buses, which is commendable. Once again this approach is failing to address one of the fundamental reasons for many people, like myself, reluctantly using these services. Woolwich was identified as a hub and watching the behaviour of the youngsters transferring from school to their homes is totally unacceptable. They have scant regard for the officers and continue to menacingly, in large groups mill around the various points. It is also quite disturbing to be made aware that this siege level of policing is necessary to contain this unwanted behaviour. The basic problem starts with parenting and their failure to instill the necessary courtesy and respect for others. The almost legislated prevention of school to be allowed to redirect unruly behaviour further adds to the need to spend inordinate amount of taxpayer's moneys on supervisory policing.

Focus and work hard on these primary life skills and ninety percent of the disorder, abuse and inconsiderate behaviour will evaporate.

A final point, that has to be made with the attainment of respect, has to be directed towards the police officers. They are not well dressed they often look scruffy and that in itself induces an indifference response from the perpetrators of unwanted behaviour. There is a valuable expression, "behaviour gets behaviour", and parents, teachers and police officers I suggest take note. The button-line for managing these costly expenses is to start somewhere and if this had been done many years ago this problem would not be worth reporting, but then there would be no derived political capital.

Almeric Johnson, Shooters Hill

Why we need this presence

IN response to this letter, we are committed to reducing crimes on buses and on the wider transport network in and around the borough. We are fully aware of the issues caused by a small minority of unruly young people and have been working to resolve it. A total of 21 PCSOs and police officers are constantly monitoring public transports and paying specific attention to hubs such as Woolwich. However, it must be pointed out that unruly children are not the only reason why we have a large presence. There are also adults engaging in anti-social behaviour. At peak times, especially between 3pm-5pm each bus can carry up to 90 passengers. I therefore feel that the presence of a robust team is necessary when we have hundreds of people using our transport network. It was back in 2009 that the Mayor of London wanted the public and those who work on public transport to feel safer across London, hence the reason why we have such a large team funded by TfL. We expect all officers and PCSOs to take pride in their appearance and I personally check their standards on a daily basis.

Thanks for the explanation

I HAD a very pleasant surprise recently from Greenwich Council - and now I am much clearer on putting my rubbish out too!

My collection day is Monday. My three black sacks hadn't been picked up so I got onto the "one-call-does-it-all" number and they gave me a reference, saying the job would be done within 24-48 hours.

Then, as the week went on, a fox got to the sacks and I had to clean it all up. The following Monday lunchtime, I was visited in person by two council officials who spent a good 10 minutes explaining the whole system to me, for which I was very grateful. They gave me some clear plastic sacks for my mixed dry recycling, so the refuse collectors can see what's inside, and I'm now 101 per cent clearer on putting my three different kinds of rubbish out correctly.

My thanks to the two officials for their professionalism. They showed me their ID badges and they spoke to me very politely and kindly. Now I'm all sorted and also very pleased to be doing my small bit for the planet!

Mayor leads cheers in pub's annual race

by Pat Greenwood

HIGH-heeled drag queens raced round the Greenwich streets while the Mayor Barbara Barwick and the crowds cheered them on.

It was the fifth annual charity fund-raiser of its kind to be organised by the Rose and Crown pub on Croom's Hill - but this year there was poignancy mixed with the laughter. Race founder Michael Joyce, the pub's in-house drag queen, was killed in a road accident during a family holiday back in Australia just before Christmas.

Close friend Shaun Retzback, who works behind the bar, told GT: "This race just gets bigger and better every year. But this year was extra special and Michael would have loved it."

Pub general manager Nathan Power said: "The event was in loving memory of Michael, and for the very first time the Mayor of Greenwich came to support us which just added to the community spirit."

Cllr Barwick used a megaphone to start the 25 or so serious contenders off. Scores more supporters showed up in drag to cheer them on.

READY TO RACE: drag queen competitors get a team talk outside the Rose & Crown from Mayor of Greenwich Barbara Barwick

Heels of at least two-and-a-half inches had to be worn for the race, and the cup was won for a second time by "Ian" - this time clad in a wedding dress.

Nathan told us: "Greenwich police close the streets around the town centre for us for the short duration, and neighbouring businesses help us. For instance, we had so many people in here at one time, the water gave out in our toilets!"

Cash is still pouring in and all proceeds will go the Metro project in nearby Norman Road which supports the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender (LGBT) community in the borough. Metro organised the barbecue after the race was over.

Friends of Michael Joyce raised £2,300 to his memory with a full day of drag acts, music and opera in the pub in February. They have installed a bench to his memory on the Avenue in Greenwich Park, and they donated £1,000 to Save the Children, Michael's favourite charity.

• THE Rose and Crown will be staging a fund-raising night for research into prostate cancer on September 26. It starts at 7pm and will feature drag performer Mercedes Benz.

Centre forward

WORK to reopen remaining facilities at the Eltham Centre will take a further step forward when the viewing gallery for the swimming pools is cleared of scaffolding that has been in place since a fire caused serious damage in February. This work will require the family pool and main swimming pools to close temporarily from Tuesday, August 31. They will reopen on Saturday, September 4. More than five tons of scaffolding are due to be removed. All other services at the Centre will be open as normal.

Sandy's leader of the pack

by Hilary Bryan

2010's been a real hoot for Brown Owl Sandy White. So far it's been a year of celebrations for the Brownie leader who runs the 5th Abbey Wood Brownies in Thamesmead.

The pack has been marking the centenary of the Brownie/Guide movement with a range of events, they've also landed a £5,000 grant to help fund future activities and Sandy had notched up 30 years with the Brownie movement.

The mum-of-three first started her Brownie life in Sydenham at the age of seven. She went on to become a Guide at 11, a young leader at 13 and a Warranted Guide at 18. When she moved to Thamesmead 20 years ago, a neighbour suggested she take over from the their Brownie leader who was leaving and Sandy's been there ever since. Her troop of Rainbows and Brownies meet on a Monday evening at the Arnott Close Community Hall and back in May many of her former Brownies returned to the hall to celebrate her 30th anniversary. "It was lovely to see those kids that I'd known from seven and I was in tears by the end of the evening. Lots of my older Brownies have moved on and got married but some of them came back with their own children," she explained. And what's kept her going for more than three decades? "I just love being with the kids, doing things with them and taking them to places they've never been before. They give as good as I give and I enjoy seeing them develop and move on," Sandy told GT. She added: "I've made so many friends over the years; with everyone from five-year-olds to their parents and grandparents. I've seen a lot of the children grow up and two or three have come back and helped me, another couple have gone on to be leaders elsewhere. Both my daughters are members of the Brownies with my eldest being a leader." Sandy's party was one of many celebrations for the troop of around 34 girls who have also been marking the centenary of the Guide movement this year. "We've done an awful lot, we've been for a trip up the Thames,

Me & my borough

GOLDEN GIRL: right, Sandy receives flowers of congratulations from pack members who give her a big 30th anniversary cheer, above

we've been to the London Eye, Greenwich Park, had speakers in and worked towards badges," Sandy enthused. Now the Brownies are looking forward to a pack holiday next July after scooping a grant from Trust Thamesmead. "Funding is vital for the Brownies and this money will help the Rainbows and Brownies visit the countryside and experience new sights and sounds; many of them have never been outside Thamesmead before," Sandy told GT.

And she added: "I would also like to say a special thank you to my eight Brownie leaders who give up their time to support me - I could never do it without their help."

As a member of the Thamesmead Community Forum, Sandy also plays a role in helping to improve the area for residents of all ages.

Thamesmead may have had a bad press in the past but Sandy believes it's a great place to live. "The people are so friendly. The schools are good and there are lots of green spaces for kids to play," she said.

"If you are comfortable in your environment you ignore the bad stuff and look for the good stuff. I've got an awful lot of friends and it can take me three hours just to buy a loaf of bread!"

A lot of things are happening in the area including the new £5m Archway development which will provide an awful lot more for kids - and adults - to do. We're really looking forward to it and it'll be something that puts Thamesmead on the map for all the right reasons."

BIG year for blind allies

by Pat Greenwood

USERS and friends of a support charity for the blind and partially sighted have risen by one third in a year.

It's cause for celebration for chief executive Colin Brown, who was appointed only 13 months ago with the aim of "reaching out" to increasing numbers of people in the borough.

Colin is boss of B.I.G. (Blind Independence Greenwich). The charity is now working to improve the lives of around 200 people.

Mayor of Greenwich Barbara Barwick is due to visit one of their twice-monthly coffee mornings tomorrow (August 25); they've launched a website as well as a regular newsletter called B.I.G. Voice; they organise trips - including a recent summer tour of Buckingham Palace - and they're appealing for more individuals and businesses to join their new fundraising '100 Club'.

Colin explained: "For just £12 a year, you're in with a chance of winning one of two cash prizes a month. The more people who join, the bigger the prizes!"

B.I.G. has recently moved to the Forum@Greenwich in Trafalgar Road while its base at the Disability Resource Centre in Erwood Road, Charlton, is refurbished.

The charity has over three-dozen regular volunteers, but they continue to need more befrienders for their users - to do anything from having a chat, doing some shopping or helping them get to appointments. They also need more volunteer drivers to get people to the coffee mornings and further afield (B.I.G. will pay your petrol).

They're also looking for any possible sponsors, maybe staff groups in local businesses who might "adopt" them. You can advertise in the newsletter, and articles are also welcome from users.

Colin and his team of four colleagues have forged strong links with Greenwich Talking Newspaper - who tape the newsletter for them - as well as Age Concern, and the Royal London Society for the Blind in Victoria.

Colin said: "We are also working with Greenwich Community Sensory Services Team and writing to all registered blind and partially sighted people in the borough to inform them of the services we offer."

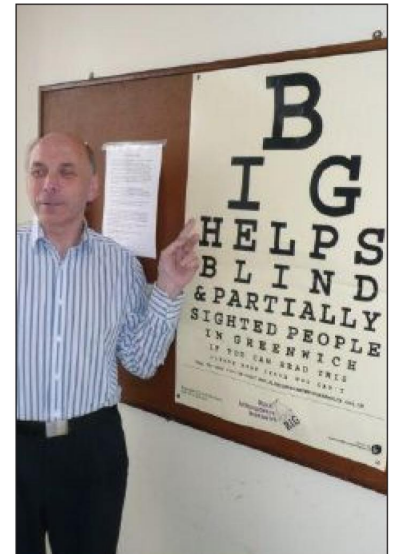

Colin has been partially-sighted from birth with "night blindness". He said: "If it's light, I can see. There are about 25,000 people like me across the UK."

The former landscape gardener had also previously worked as a visual awareness trainer on behalf of Action for Blind People, going into companies and ensuring their services were accessible, changing attitudes and advising on the law and disability.

B.I.G.'s origins go back more than 100 years when a workshop was established to enable blind men to support their families. Colin said: "Nowadays, visually impaired people are just as independent, but still sometimes require special help to live life to the full."

There are about two million blind and partially-sighted people across the UK. Of those, anything from 1,500 to 2,500 live in Greenwich. The council has 900 names on its local register.

Can you help to run veggie stall?

A SECOND weekly fruit and veg stall is opening in Thamesmead next month, and more volunteers are needed to help. The new stall, run jointly by Trust Thamesmead and Greenwich Community Food Cooperative, will open outside Discovery School in Battery Road, West Thamesmead, on September 16. The first weekly stall opened in Arnott Close three years ago. Romel Holmes-Lewis, the Trust's community development officer for West Thamesmead, said: "It's a chance for volunteers to receive on the job training in customer service and money handling, whilst promoting the benefits of eating five daily portions of fruit and veg."

● Find out more by ringing Romel on 020-8320 4470 or Sue Redford at Greenwich Community Food Coop on 020-8269 4884.

From Derry to downtown Abbey Wood

TWO inspirational Irish sportsmen from the Gaelic Athletic Association (GAA) visited St Paul's Academy in Abbey Wood as part of celebrations to mark the South London Under-14 All Ireland Gaelic football team's success at the international Feile tournament in Derry.

Staff and students at the sports academy welcomed All Ireland winning manager Mickey Harte and world handball champion Paul Brady, who officially opened the academy's new handball courts.

The visit was planned by St Paul's director of sport Niall McCann, and director of Gaelic football Michael Donnelly. "Their visit was a real boost to all at the end of an extremely busy yet successful year," said Niall. "Local primary schools and parents were delighted and inspired to meet Mickey and Paul, both of whom spoke in admiration of what has been achieved."

Mickey Harte said of the visit: "The success of the Feile team, allied to the enthusiasm of the principal and staff here at St Paul's, highlights a unique template for the promotion of Gaelic Games outside Ireland - a beacon for others to copy."

A South London Gaelic football team competes in the Feile tournament every year, with players from local teams, including 14 boys this year from St Paul's.

Italian heart and soul

Family-run restaurant dishes up warmth and great food

BEAUTIFULLY lit on the outside and with a feeling of warmth on the inside, this was an unforgettable dining experience for my partner and I. La Bella Rosa, tucked away on Eltham high street, is an undiscovered gem. We started our meal with mussels in garlic butter and white wine sauce which were delicious - the portion was extremely generous and it was well priced too. Our next starter was Gamberoni: king prawns cooked in your choice of chilli or white wine sauce. We went for the chilli option which had just the right amount of kick and the prawns simply glided out of the shell with a little help from my fork. Our final starter was the Insalata

Tricolore (Sliced avocado with tomatoes and mozzarella cheese with basil and olive oil). On to the drinks, and recommended by the attentive staff I went for the house red, which was medium bodied, not too over powering and accompanied my food nicely. Unlike other restaurants which have a waiter/waitress allocated a table, the staff at Bella Rosa clearly enjoy their roles serving whichever tables need service. And in true Italian style there is a friendly, family like atmosphere - even a couple of birthdays were celebrated the evening we were there, with staff and diners joining in to sing and clap for their birthday wishes. Our main courses were more than a match for the great starters: Filetto Medaglione (medallions of Scottish fillet steak, served on a bed of mashed potatoes topped with peppercorn sauce), I would recommend for meat lovers - again very generous portions and tender juicy meat; Invontino (veal escalops, stuffed with mozzarella and Parma ham, cooked in cream, mushroom and white wine sauce) was sublime, the meat amazingly soft. And to finish off our frenzied foody evening we plumped for the homemade tiramisu and assorted flavours of Gelati ice cream, which was the perfect way to treat our palates before saying goodbye until our next visit.

Prize way to grow your own

HOUSING estates in Greenwich are being encouraged to enter a competition to grow their own food. The Edible Estates competition, part of the Capital Growth scheme, encourages residents to get together to reclaim unused land to grow the food. Prizes include £250 gift cards, tool sets and "worm cafes". Training will be available as well as practical help in the competition, which has a closing date of Wednesday, September 15. Greenwich already leads the way in the London-wide Capital Growth scheme. The council has committed to making 60 spaces available. They will come from regenerating dormant allotment plots and small parcels of defunct wasteland in parks and open spaces. A range of community growing schemes are up and running, co-ordinated by the Greenwich co-operative Development Agency (GCDA). A key part of the GCDA's work is the network of 15 food co-operatives across the borough, called the Greenwich Community Food co-op, which gives people access to affordable fresh food at weekly markets. Cllr Rajwant Sidhu, the council's cabinet member for Greener Greenwich, told GT: "Apart from providing access to local, nutritious and affordable food, food growing has many wider benefits including increasing social cohesion, improving mental health and improving the local landscape. I hope we have numerous entries to the Edible Estates competition. I'm sure we'll do well." • FIND out more at www.capitalgrowth.org/edibleestatescompetition

Noisy neighbour fined

WOOLWICH resident Mr Emmanuel Moniz has been fined £1000 at Woolwich Magistrates' Court for causing noise nuisance to his neighbours. Greenwich Council witnessed eight breaches of noise nuisance and obtained an injunction order against Mr Moniz, who lives in John Wilson Street, preventing him from causing further annoyance to his neighbours. In total Mr Moniz was fined £1000 with additional £300 costs to the council plus a £15 victim surcharge. The magistrates also ordered that his music equipment be forfeited even though he claimed it belonged to someone else. This was the second offence by Mr Moniz at the same property. He was fined in April this year. The court described his behaviour as deliberate, childish and unsociable and, given that he attended a sound engineering course, they felt that he should have been aware of the level of the noise. Cllr Maureen O'Mara, Greenwich Council's Cabinet Member for Environment and Community Safety, said: "Greenwich Council will not tolerate noisy neighbours who make other residents lives a misery. "Noise can cause distress and alarm to others and we urge all our residents to be mindful of their noise levels in order to avoid a heavy fine or even worse face prosecution."

GREENWICH students are celebrating their A Level successes at schools across the borough. For the second year running figures released on Thursday, August 19, show that 98.2 per cent of Greenwich students passed at grades A*-E and 64.4 vocational courses with 148 students achieving BTEC, which is equivalent to A Level A*-C. Cllr Jackie Smith, Greenwich Council, which recognise the commitment and hard work they have put in. With fewer university places than in previous years, it's good education is an investment in the future, and we remain focussed on delivering sustained improvements in education.

Greenwich Council's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 199

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Council's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed.

Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to:

For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time.
For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

Band

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the council must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, get an application form by phoning the Access and Allocations Section on 020 8921 2941. Or pick up a form from any neighbourhood office.

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Council about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.greenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Council's website

www.greenwich.gov.uk/homes

Community fair is more than fayre

A LOCAL fair is being held next month to celebrate different ways of giving back to the community.

The fete takes place in Abbey Wood on September 25, and is part of London Week Of Peace.

The event runs from 1-6pm on the Saturday, and was organised by World Of Hope, Greenwich.

The theme is 'My Community, my responsibility, our future' and hopes to raise awareness of different ways of giving back to the community.

The venue is Bostall Gardens, Viola Avenue, SE2, and there is also plenty of sporting action to keep fitter visitors busy.

Football, basket ball, long tennis, table tennis and table football make up the active side of proceedings while there are arts and crafts stalls for arty types. Jewellery making, face painting, drawing, and painting are all showcased, while games like scrabble, connect four and cards are on hand for extra fun.

The event is free to enter for all, and there is fund raising by way of a raffle. The prize is a JD Sports voucher worth £25.

Another aim of the get-together is to gather opinions at the forum of debate. Subjects for debating on the day will be centred around community, the responsibilities of the community and its future.

Saturday September 25,
from 1-6pm at Bostall Gardens,
Viola Avenue, SE2 0TQ

Albums in the pipeline

LOCAL rapper Brainlokk, aka Daniel Blake has not one, but two new records in the pipeline.

The first of the two will be available on free download from September 20, with the second offering to be aired two months later.

Brainlokk told us: "The first one is called Back To The Boombap, and is a pure hip-hop album."

"The second will be out around November time. Both will be free to download from my twitter and facebook pages."

Watch this space for a review of Back To The Boombap.
Keep in touch with Brainlokk and download the album from September 20 @ www.twitter.com/brainlokkmc or search 'brainlokk' on facebook chance to whack the ball through a power station, over a bridge, and into a mini theme park ride. But best of all is the opportunity to get one over on dad.

HOLE IN ONE: Jay, 6, sets himself for a match-winning putt

Taking a break in Greenwich were the Nicoll family from Derby: Greg and his two sons, Alex and Ollie.

Ollie, 10, told us: "I've got a hole in one on one of the holes - I'm winning at the moment."

Greg admitted: "Yes, he's been beating his dad. He's done quite well. We've come down from Derby to London for a few days - it's been great."

The mini course is housed in the 'Activity Zone' at The O2, and as well as the golf there is the chance to walk and play on water with Aqua Globes; springy fun on the Bungee Trampoline and the Bungee Run, and for the under 10s there is Mini Mahem, with ball pools, soft play obstacle courses, and toddler friendly zone.

There's also a junior golf course for the under-7s, with a family ticket for under a tenner.

But six-year-old Jay Herbert looked to be a Tiger Woods in the making as he thrashed his dad on the senior course. He said: "I really like the golf - the best part was beating dad!"

Dad John added: "We've had a really nice family day out - we've loved all the activities."

Rod Kitson
The Activity Zone is on every day at The O2 is on every day until Sept 5.

Mini golf runs from 12-7pm, with last entry at 6.15pm. £6 per person for the senior course, family ticket is £18. £2.50 for 30 mins on junior course with adult paying £2.50. Family ticket £9.

A mini golf course is in the borough until the end of the school holidays

IT'S always best to take two pairs of trousers when playing golf. In case you get a hole in one. And that's exactly what players have been aiming for at a mini-golf course which has been laid out at The O2 this summer. While it may not be a full sized course - or a full walk ruined, depending on your opinion - it's been a hit with families and is one of a number of events at the North Greenwich venue until the end of the school holidays. More forgiving for those with short attention spans than its bigger, more serious brother, 'crazy' golf has been a staple on seaside piers up and down the country, and now it's gone urban! Across 18 holes there's the

Swedes play with fire... and win.

DIRECTED by Daniel Alfredson, The Girl Who Played With Fire is the second part of a Swedish

three-parter that you might be missing out on. The film is a Swedish import with subtitles, in which disgraced journalist Mikael Blomkvist (Michael Nyqvist) and edgy Lisbeth Salander (Noomi Rapace) work together to solve the coldest of cold cases, in a slick and intelligent film that is hugely absorbing. It's the second in the late author, Stieg Larsson's 'Millennium Trilogy,' and as good as its predecessor, The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo. This time we find Mikael investigating a sex-trafficking operation while Lisbeth tries to sort her complicated life out. The plot thickens when the investigation results in a spate of gruesome murders, and the police start to fancy Lisbeth as the killer. Mikael naturally realises that this is a crazy mistake, and sets out to find the killers and get the girl. Mikael and the moody Lisbeth are such brilliant characters that it is a truly rewarding and satisfying watch. Following the absorbing tale - and the whole trilogy - repays watching. Look out for The Girl Who Kicked The Hornet's Nest which is the final part of the trilogy, and let's face it, with the first two under your belt, it won't be the first time you have enjoyed a Swedish film.

BURNT OUT: Noomi Rapace as Lisbeth

Swimming with sha

Jaws, E.T. and Shrek make Universal Studios an unforgettable place

I READ the book in one sitting, even as a child. I was terrified. The movie was worse, and yet here I was - about to come face to face with my nemesis, Jaws, at the Universal film studios in Orlando, Florida.

We stayed in the Hard Rock Hotel, one of three on-site hotels, the others fully booked despite the recession and low growth in the US. The service was impeccable, the rooms spacious and the amenities spectacular including an enormous swimming pool (open 8am to midnight) with a 300 metre slide and music audible even underwater.

Up at 7am to be queuing by 8am - hotel guests are allowed entry one hour before the public - and holding tightly to our express passes (its so cool to push in), we headed straight for Jaws only to be sidetracked by Shrek 4D, a wonderfully entertaining 4D adventure with Donkey, Shrek and Fiona, enhanced by 3D "Ogre vision" glasses.

Jaws didn't disappoint, despite its age. We strolled through an eerily quiet Amity - the town of the book has been almost completely reconstructed - and boarded a (far too) small boat. Disaster struck half way round as the engine died; fifty metres away, a large fin broke the surface of the water and headed towards us...

We duly headed towards refreshments - a combination of fear, hot sun (temperatures regularly in the mid 40s), and humidity proving too much for our British constitutions. Duly restored, we hit the rest of the park.

Starting with ET - one of the oldest, and gentlest of rides, we graduated to Men in Black, a clever, participative ride where you get to shoot aliens en route, via an old favourite, Terminator 2, which - according to my kids, is now rather dated. Twister was exhilarating, the Horror Make-Up Show interesting and funny, and the Rip Ride Rocket roller coaster was definitely for strong stomachs only. Our personal recommendation however, by common consent, was an old favourite: Krustyland and the Simpsons. Following an entertaining Itchy and Scratchy safety video, we were plunged into the world of the most famous and most dysfunctional family, swooping and soaring through Krustyland. It's slick, it's fun - but most of all, it's clever. Bart's response: "you have soiled your pants for the last time?" to Sideshow Bob's "You have spoiled my plans for the last time" is an absolute classic and had me in stitches.

Picture book end for Perfect prose?

Plodding plot prevents Picture Perfect from being, well, perfect.

WAKING up in a graveyard with no knowledge of how you got there is a chilling prospect. But it's the spine-tingling situation Cassie Barrett finds herself in at the outset of Jodi Picoult's latest bestseller, Picture Perfect.

Cassie is discovered by LAPD officer Will who, despite falling in love with her, has to hand her over to her actual husband. And that's just the tip of the iceberg: It just so happens that her husband is Hollywood's biggest film star, Alex Rivers, and her marriage is one of the most perfect in showbiz - or so it would seem... As her past comes back to haunt her, the brutal truth of her life comes into sharp focus. She realises how she ended up in the graveyard in the first place and, more importantly, she realises that she has a life-changing decision to make. In PP, author Picoult not only skilfully emphasises the influence that the past has on your future, but also proves the old adage that you can never be sure what goes on behind closed doors. It's clear that the writer is passionate about the characters she creates. She embellishes them with heavily detailed back stories, which help the reader to understand the rationale behind the choices they make. And though this is great for character development, it did feel slightly detrimental to the pace of the novel. As the plot thickens, you are willing for that climactic moment of conflict, and it never seems to come. There is undoubtedly a lot of drama that leaps from the book, but due to the endless flashbacks and pages of back-story, momentum became lost and the narrative muddled. As a result, despite being compelled to find out what happens to Cassie, reading the book did feel like wading through treacle at times. That said Picoult's greatest skill clearly lies within creating relatable characters, which, despite the book's challenging pace, makes the beautifully written and heart-warming final chapter all the more satisfying.

rks

for film fans

The supporting infrastructure is everything you would expect from American customer service: food stations everywhere (albeit most of it fried); drinking water (surprisingly) freely available and even cooling stations to help with the heat. The service is a little OTT for British tastes but staff are almost exclusively helpful and knowledgeable even after a 13 hour day when their own tolerance levels must surely be wearing thin. Semi compulsory 20% gratuities play their part but this is definitely not Euro Disney.

The west is the best

American revivalists Best Coast hit the right notes

SO here's the story so far: Bethany Cosentino, Los Angeles native and founding member of Best Coast left the sunny shores of America's west coast (the 'best coast' geddit?), to head east to study in New York. Whilst there - with homesickness sinking in, she wrote a bunch of songs that were inspired by all things LA.

She eventually quit her studies, moved back west and formed Best Coast. Throughout 2009 the band garnered growing attention with a string of independent singles culminating with the summery pop gem When I'm With You, and with a sound that sits perfectly within the current trends - fuzzy, distorted, lo-fi production over 60's inspired girl-group pop arrangements, debut album Crazy For You dropped with more than a little anticipation.

When I'm With You - and its parent record, The Black Iris EP was the turning point for the band: previous releases were extremely lo-fi, sounding as if recorded on a Casio cassette recorder, but the EP marked a change in approach. And it's this sound that adorns follow-up, Crazy For You with a stamped authority. Boyfriend opens up proceedings and sets the tone nicely: simple and direct songs, simple structures with lyrics about boys, heartaches and angry themes that have littered Hollywood teen movies for decades. It's the simplicity of the music in tandem with the direct and blunt lyrics that sits so well on the album, and though the first couple of plays I found a tad samey, the subtle approach eventually seeped through and had me coming back for more. There are obvious reference points across the work, (this is an unashamedly west coast-sounding album after all), so nods to early Beach Boys delivered with the scuzzy attack of Nuggets-esque garage rock are clear, but the biggest influence that comes through is Phil Spector and the girl groups he produced in the 60s: The Crystals, The Ronettes and Darlene Love swarm the album, and much like the tortured genius's best work the record is swamped in reverb and echo.

There are a few negatives though, and while 'one trick pony' isn't a wholly fair tag to throw at it because its continuity is key to its best parts, it does seem that the band took the formula of When I'm With You and applied it to the whole album. There is only a certain number of times you can listen to lyrics about missing that special someone, or how you want to be with them all the time, or how much you love someone you just can't have and it can get a little tedious at times.

It was an irritation that jumped out at me on the first two or three listens, but the more I've come back to it, the more I've found myself falling into the melodies and pop hooks of songs like Bratty B, When The Sun Don't Shine and the title track.

Best Coast have delivered a pretty decent album that will sound wonderful sitting in the sunshine with a few drinks at a BBQ, but like a lot of the current lo-fi, indie pop bands that are all the rage at the moment, it'll be interesting to see where they go from here and what the actual longevity of albums like these are.

It's all very well in August 2010, but will this still sound vibrant and fun in February 2014? Only time will tell, so for now lets just sit back and enjoy it for what it is: simple, fun, and just a little bit addictive... for now anyway.

What Katy did next

Teenage Dreams so hard to beat

WITH a punk pop, bubblegum pin-up style and an affinity for 1980s rock themes, Katy Perry burst onto the top 40 on both sides of the Atlantic in the late 2000s.

Following her hugely successful 2008 platinum release One Of The Boys featuring the number one hit I Kissed A Girl, Katy Perry is back on the scene with her second album, Teenage Dream.

The twice-nominated Grammy singer-songwriter continues to produce uplifting pop songs, working on TD with a string of different producers including Max Martin and Greg Wells. The record is swimming in summery anthems, including single California Gurls (featuring Snoop Dogg), with warm synth hooks and Perry's bold vocals revelling in the electro inspired sound. Santa Barbara-born Perry was inspired to write California Gurls as she watched her friends go crazy at a party listening to Jay-Z's salute to New York, Empire State of Mind.

"Everybody was holding their drinks in the air and dancing, and I thought, we're not in New York, we're in Los Angeles! What about California? What about all the homies, the gin and juice, the swaying palm trees, the sun-kissed skin 24-7," Perry recalled. "I decided that we needed to make a response. I want people to want to book a ticket to California the first time they hear it!" And because it just doesn't seem right to release a song that mentions gin and juice without Snoop Dogg, Perry recruited the rap icon to contribute his inimitable vocals to California Gurls. "We thought it would sound so cool and give the song another dimension," she added. "Snoop is as West Coast as it gets." With an uncanny knack for hooks, Katy Perry looks odds-on to set the charts on fire with this latest album.

Katy Perry, 'Teenage Dream' is available from HMV, Greenwich Shopping Park, Charlton, from 30 August

LONDON BOROUGH OF GREENWICH The Greenwich (Waiting and Loading Restrictions) (Amendment No. 34) Experimental Order 2010

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Greenwich Borough Council on 18th August 2010 made the above-mentioned Order under section 9 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, as amended. The Order will come into force on 31st August 2010.
2. The general effect of the Order will be, on an experimental basis, to introduce double yellow line "at any time" waiting restrictions at the junction of Avery Hill Road, Besley Road and Crown Woods Way:
  - (a) on both sides of Avery Hill Road, from its junction with Besley Road southward to a point in line with the northern wall of No. 150/152 Besley Road;
  - (b) on Besley Road
    - (i) on the north side, from the eastern boundary of No. 161 Besley Road to a point 2 metres west of the eastern wall of No. 169 Besley Road; and
    - (ii) on the south side, from a point opposite the eastern boundary of No. 161 Besley Road to a point opposite the eastern wall of No. 169 Besley Road; and
  - (c) on both sides of Crown Woods Way, from its junction with Besley Road northward to a point 4.5 metres south of the southern wall of No. 2/4 Crown Woods Way.
3. The Order provides that in pursuance of section 10(2) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, the Assistant Director of Strategic Transportation at Greenwich Council, or some person authorised by him, may, if it appears to him or that person essential in the interests of the expeditious, convenient and safe movement of traffic or for preserving or improving the amenities of the area through which any road affected by the Order extends, modify or suspend the Order or any provision thereof.
4. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Strategic Transportation on 020 8921 5580.
5. The Order and other documents giving more detailed particulars of the Order are available for inspection during normal office hours until the Order ceases to have effect at the Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise and Skills, Strategic Transportation, Greenwich Council, Green Building, 48 Woolwich New Road, SE18 6HQ.
6. If any person wishes to question the validity of the Order or of any of the provisions contained therein on the grounds that they are not within the powers conferred by the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, or that any requirement of that Act or of any instrument made under that Act has not been complied with, that person may, within six weeks from the date on which the Order was made, apply for that purpose to the High Court.
7. The Council will consider in due course whether the provisions of the Order should be continued in force indefinitely by means of a permanent Order made under section 6 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984. Any person may object to the making of the permanent Order for the purpose of such indefinite continuation, within a period of six months beginning with the date on which the experimental Order comes into force or, if the Order is varied by another Order or modified pursuant to section 10(2) of the 1984 Act, beginning with the date on which the variation or modification or the latest variation or modification comes into force. Any such objection must be made in writing and must state the grounds on which it is made and be sent to the Council's agents: Traffic Orders Team, Project Centre, 14B St Cross Street, London, EC1N 8BX (quoting reference PCL/TPO/PJ/10147).
8. Persons objecting to the Order should be aware that in view of the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985, this Council would be legally obliged to make any comments received in response to this notice, open to public inspection.

Great, Scott

Wagstaff the star as Addicks plunder points

Leyton Orient 1
Charlton 3

by Kevin Nolan

A MERE 72 hours after their B-team carelessly mislaid a 3-0 Cup lead at Shrewsbury, Charlton's first string emphatically put the record straight with this fighting performance in East London.

Seems a pity they can't forfeit their Cup games because they're an entirely different proposition in the league, as Leyton Orient discovered to their cost.

Orient, like Bournemouth before them, were handed the massive boost of facing 10-men around the hour mark, a consequence of the somewhat harsh dismissal of Christian Dailly.

Having already equalised Alan McCormack's first goal for Charlton, however, the cock-a-hoop home side were unable to make further inroads into a magnificently brave rearguard and as their increasingly desperate efforts were defied by a blue-clad wall of blocks, tackles and defensive headers, they were picked off by a pair of sickening counter punches.

The first half of this ultimately absorbing thriller was, by comparison with later developments, relatively peaceful. Heartened by their midweek Cup success at Swindon, Orient began brightly, with Mike Cestor shooting narrowly over the bar, skipper Stephen Dawson forcing a fine, reaction save from Rob Elliot, then Alex Revell screwing feebly wide when favoured by the run of the ball.

Little had been seen of Charlton up front before McCormack converted their first genuine chance.

Linking neatly with Scott Wagstaff near the touchline, right back Simon Francis stepped inside to cross left-footed for the far post, where McCormack climbed high to steer an accurate downward header past Jamie Jones. The O's had been handed a first painful lesson in the dark arts of classic guerilla warfare.

On 36 minutes, meanwhile, the seemingly innocuous booking of Dailly for "deliberate" handling was to have repercussions later.

Matthew Spring's resultant free kick was heroically charged down, as was Elliot Omozusi's ferocious attempt blast the rebound through a chaotic penalty area. During the second half pressure following Dailly's dismissal, McCormack "took one for the team" while courageously blocking Dawson's brutal drive with his face. Laid out by the force of the shot, his personal selflessness personified Charlton's corporate defiance.

The second half started with Terrell Forbes's last-ditch tackle foiling Pawel Abbott, but Orient quickly hit back to level. Nippy wide man Dean Cox's dipping cross from the right eluded Gary Doherty's lunging interception and Scott McGleish popped up behind the centre back to efficiently slot home. Worse soon followed for the suddenly rattled visitors with the loss of Dailly.

Launching into a 50-50 clash of captains with Dawson, whose writhing reaction helped persuade referee James Linington to don the black cap, a clearly outraged Dailly was ordered off. Fortunately Dawson made a full recovery, as did Bournemouth's Michael Symes a week previously, after the damage had been done and Jose Semedo had paid the full penalty. Symes, in fact, later allowed that the "tackle hadn't been too bad", a mealy-mouthed observation in view of his tormented gyrations at the time. Like Semedo, Dailly seemed hard done by - but his departure left his depleted side up against it.

Calmly quarterbacked by Spring, Orient were perfectly poised to exploit Charlton's disarray, a commanding position which made it even more of a body blow to them that they promptly fell behind again. It's probably no consolation for them to acknowledge that the goal was a cracker, Wagstaff combining with restless busybody Lee Martin before cutting in to curl a beauty into the far corner of Jones' net.

While Spring continued to probe patiently for weaknesses, the Eastenders were far from finished, with the united efforts of Doherty and Thierry Racon required to snuff out McGleish's determined solo dribble into the penalty area. With emergency substitute Miguel Llera at the heart of their stirring resistance, the Addicks actually allowed few clearcut opportunities until a surprising scorer closed the books deep into added time.

Having lost his right back spot to Francis, Chris Solly replaced the indefatigable Martin possibly as much to kill time as make a defensive impression. With his first touch, the engaging youngster finished a fresh-legged burst to beat Omozusi to Wagstaff's precisely placed low centre and join McCormack in notching his first Charlton goal from two yards. A perfect end to a satisfying evening was easy to relish until the obvious distress of Dailly came to mind. Still, into every life comes a little rain...
